- Alexander Zverev (Option D): The powerful German tennis star who enjoyed a spectacular run to reach the final of Wimbledon in 2026 but was ultimately defeated by Sinner in a compelling, high-intensity championship match.

Q2. Jannik Sinner defeated which player in the Wimbledon 2026 Men's Singles Final?

- (a) Novak Djokovic
- (b) Daniil Medvedev

- Zverev put up a monumental fight, utilizing his massive first serve and formidable backhand to push Sinner to his absolute limits during multiple extended sets. However, Sinner's superior movement, return of serve, and clutch decision-making during pivotal tiebreak moments ultimately tilted the match in his favor.

Information Booster:

- The ATP Ranking system calculates a player's standing based on their performance over the past 52 weeks, with a Grand Slam victory awarding a massive 2,000 ranking points to the winner.
- Jannik Sinner made history when he initially claimed the World No. 1 spot, becoming the first-ever Italian singles player to achieve this ranking since the inception of the computerized system in 1973.
- Maintaining the World No. 1 ranking requires consistent performance at Masters 1000 events and Grand Slams, a feat Sinner achieved through meticulous scheduling, elite physical conditioning, and structural gameplay updates.

Additional Knowledge:

- World No. 2 (Option A): The ranking closely held by Sinner's chief rivals, such as Carlos Alcaraz, who were constantly in fierce competition to accumulate enough points to challenge his top position on the tour.
- World No. 3 (Option B): A spot frequently occupied by other highly consistent modern stars like Alexander Zverev or Daniil Medvedev as they look to bridge the gap to the top two spots in tennis.
- World No. 5 (Option C): A ranking held by players firmly entrenched in the elite top tier but lacking the absolute week-in, week-out dominance displayed by Sinner during his remarkable and historic 2026 campaign.

- Centre Court has a seating capacity of approximately 14,979 spectators and features the exclusive Royal Box, which regularly hosts members of the British Royal Family and global dignitaries from all walks of life.
